

Paul's Weekend

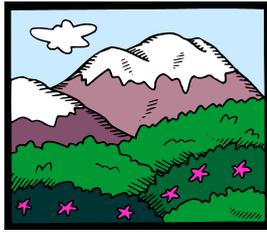

I was really busy last weekend. I was so tired on Sunday night, but I had a great weekend. My friends from England came to visit me. It was great to see them. There were three of them in total, Simon and his wife Sarah, and another friend Julie.

I met them at the airport on Friday afternoon. We went to a Moroccan restaurant for dinner. It was delicious. I had cous-cous and a meat tagine. After the restaurant we went to a wine bar for a drink. We chatted and laughed until it closed at 12.30am.

On Saturday morning my friends had a lie-in. I got up about 8 o' clock and went shopping. I bought some eggs, bacon, tomatoes, mushrooms, potatoes, beans, bread and milk. When I returned home I made a big 'Irish breakfast' for my three friends. It was the biggest breakfast they had ever eaten!

After breakfast we drove to the Dublin Mountains. We went for a nice long walk. We saw some wild deer and my friends took many photographs. Following the walk we went home, had lunch, rested for a while and then went into the city centre.

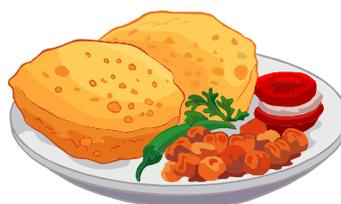

My friends wanted to go shopping. They bought some Irish souvenirs, clothes and Cd's. When the shops closed we went for a Kebab and chips on Dame Street. It was very good.

On Saturday night we went to a disco. We drank some beer and danced for many hours. It was great fun. The disco finished about 2.30. On Sunday morning we were all very tired so we slept until about 11.30.

On Sunday we went for a walk in the Phoenix Park. It was a little chilly, but not too cold and it wasn't raining. That afternoon we decided to go to see a film in the cinema. We saw a romantic-comedy. It was quite good and we laughed a lot. After a quick dinner in a lovely Indian restaurant, I took my friends to the airport. I'm sure they slept on the plane all the way home.

So that was my weekend. It was full of activities and great fun. I think I will sleep for 12 hours tonight!

Match the word with its meaning?

Busy	to sleep later than usual
Delicious	a present typical of a country
Chatted	lives in nature; not tame; maybe dangerous
Lie-in	friendly talk
Wild	no time to relax; many things to do
Souvenirs	a little cold
Chilly	a funny story about love
Romantic-comedy	food that is very nice to eat

10 Questions

1. Did Paul have a quiet weekend?

2. Where were his friends from? How many came to visit?

3. What type of food did they eat on Friday night?

4. Did Paul have a lie-in on Saturday morning?

5. Did Paul buy some meat at the shop?

6. What wild animal did they see in the mountains?

7. What did his friends buy in city centre?

8. Was it raining in the Phoenix Park?

9. What type of film did they see in the cinema?

10. True / False: Paul feels full of energy on Sunday night.

Paul's Weekend

Put in the missing word.

three biggest chips disco airport beans mountains chatted cold delicious photographs busy Indian city film

I was really _____ last weekend. I was so tired on Sunday night, but I had a great weekend. My friends came to visit me from England. It was great to see them. There were _____ of them in total, Simon and his wife Sarah, and another friend Julie.

I met them at the _____ on Friday afternoon. We went to a Moroccan restaurant for dinner. It was _____. I had cous-cous and a meat tagine. After the restaurant we went to a wine bar for a drink. We _____ and laughed until it closed at 12.30am.

On Saturday morning my friends had a lie-in. I got up about 8 o' clock and went shopping. I bought some eggs, bacon, tomatoes, mushrooms, potatoes, _____, bread and milk. When I returned home I made a big 'Irish breakfast' for my three friends. It was the _____ breakfast they had ever eaten!

After breakfast we drove to the Dublin _____. We went for a nice long walk. We saw some wild deer and my friends took many _____. Following the walk we went home, had lunch, rested for a while and then went into the _____ centre. My friends wanted to go shopping. They bought some Irish souvenirs, clothes and Cd's. When the shops closed we went for a Kebab and _____ on Dame Street. It was very good.

On Saturday night we went to a _____. We drank some beer and danced for many hours. It was great fun. The disco finished about 2.30. On Sunday morning we were all very tired so we slept until about 11.30.

On Sunday we went for a walk in the Phoenix Park. It was a little chilly, but not too _____ and it wasn't raining. That afternoon we decided to go to see a _____ in the cinema. We saw a romantic-comedy. It was quite good and we laughed a lot. After a quick dinner in a lovely _____ restaurant, I took my friends to the airport. I'm sure they slept on the plane all the way home.

So that was my weekend. It was full of activities and great fun. I think I will sleep for 12 hours tonight!